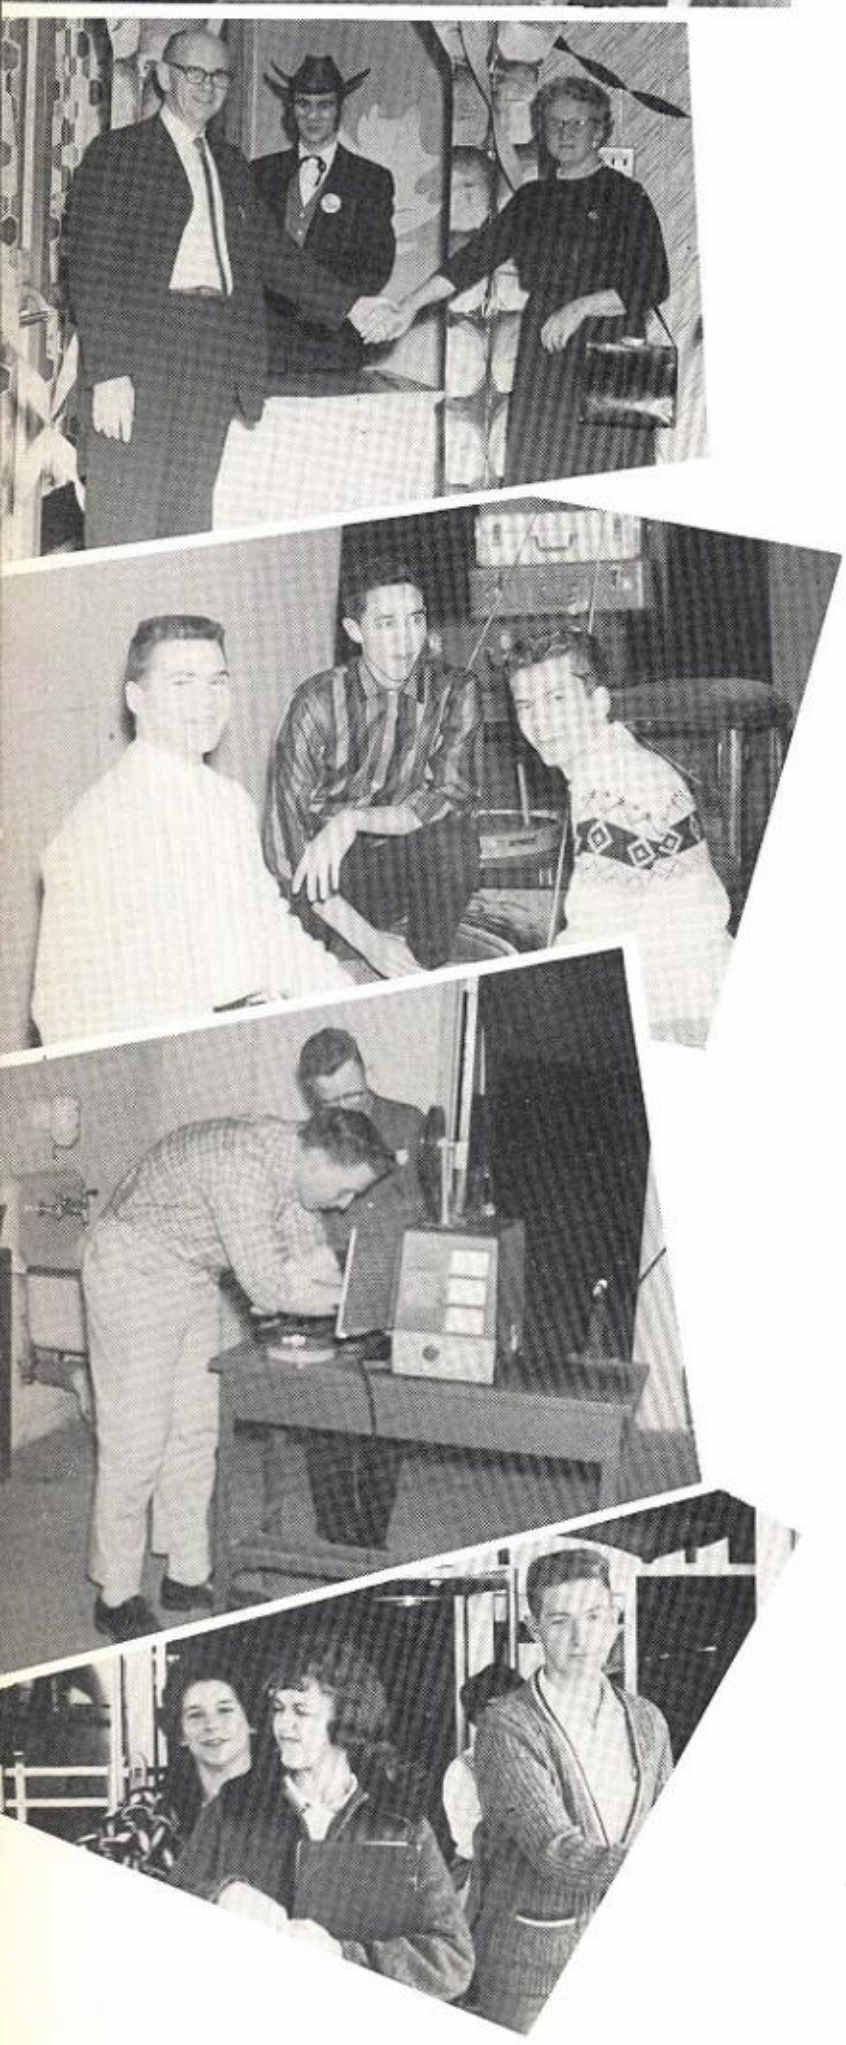
EX LIBRIS



We Present:

The 1962 Amptennian

In the following pages we endeavor to portray life at Northampton Area Joint Senior High School. We have recorded the incidents of the past year in a permanent form with the hope that they will be of interest now and, perhaps, a source of inspiration in the future. Here is a picture of our high school life as we enact it from day to day, not merely as students but as friends and companions who share happiness and sorrow. If the result of our work approaches to some degree your expectations, we ask no greater reward.

Theme:

"Strength" is our theme. The strength and vigor of our endeavors both in the development of our knowledge and physical powers is depicted by "Charlie Atlas" who, we hope, will guide you through our Amptennian with the power and ability which we so highly esteem.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

School directors are selected in the general election by popular vote and, except for the secretary and treasurer, serve without pay. The thirty-seven school directors select twelve of their members as representatives to the Northampton meetings where all school policy is made. These are the men who administer the state rules and regulations, who employ our teachers, and who formulate rules of conduct for the students. Theirs is a monumental task since they are responsible to the taxpayers of the seven districts in the Northampton Jointure for the best quality of education and the prudent expenditure of money. At this time it would be well for the class of 1962 to give these men a vote of appreciation and this message, "Thanks for a job well done!"

Seated from left: Luther Schlegel, Russell C. Becker, Superintendent Albert L. Henry, President Guy A. Rice, Willard Schaffer, Joseph George; standing: Howard G. Raubenhold, Joseph Smida, Russell Fisher, Woodrow Lindenmoyer, Darle A. Strohl, George Newhard.

A Message:

To the class of 1962

Graduation may be the end of your days at school, but not the end of your days of learning. Each day you will be in contact with new problems that you must solve for yourselves. You will be graded by the world for the answers you give. Give the world the best you have and the best will come to you.

Guy A. Rice

President of Northampton Area Joint
Board of Education

ALBERT L. HENRY, B.A., M.A.
Superintendent of Schools

To the Class of 1962

It has been a privilege to be Superintendent of Schools during your last year in the Northampton Area Joint Senior High School. Attending your activities and observing you at work in the classrooms has been a pleasant experience. I share with you a pride in the outstanding performance of your last year here.

During the time you have attended public schools, you have been mastering the basic tools of learning that are fundamental to the successful pursuit of any vocation or profession. This mastery should enable you to enter an institution of higher learning or to take your place in the labor force of this country. I trust that in securing this knowledge you have acquired the wisdom to use it wisely, so that you will be able to plan a good life and to conduct it properly. The efforts of your instructors and parents will be repaid if you have learned to accept your responsibility as a citizen and to make wise decisions in the home, on the job, and in the voting booth.

I extend to you my best wishes for success and happiness in your life and future careers, which I shall watch with interest. Also, I invite you to call upon me for any needed assistance or advice during the years ahead.

Albert L. Henry

NORMAN A. LAUB, B.S., M.A.

Principal

Directing and co-ordinating the complexities of our high school are the main duties of Mr. Laub, our principal. His job entails constant supervision of all activities from the most important to the least important in order to maintain a smoothly-running organization. His achievements as an administrator effectively demonstrate his exceptional ability.

ALBERT M. LERCH, B.S., M.Ed.

Our Assistant Administrator and Guidance Counselor, Mr. Lerch, is the man to see if you are having scholastic, vocational, or emotional problems. Not only students, but graduates, businessmen, and the community, depend on him for guidance and psychological aid which he so generously gives. Among his many other duties are interviewing, testing, managing assemblies, recommending students for admittance to college, or finding job openings for them. His helpfulness and friendliness prove "Doc" Lerch a friend to all who seek his assistance.

ALFRED LAUBACH, Ph.B., M.A.

"Master of All" is what M.A. should signify, because Mr. Laubach's helpful and able hand has placed many activities on the road to success. Assisting the principal, advising the Student Council, and presenting the daily announcements comprise his major duties. An understanding heart, warm smile, and a hearty laugh are the trademarks of Al Laubach, "Everybody's Friend."

MR. ALEK ERDOSY, B.S., M.A.

Who is the man that attends all athletic events? He is Mr. Alek Erdosy, our faculty manager. Besides care of the hundred and one details of organization which one never thinks of, such as setting up schedules and arranging transportation for the teams, he supervises the administration of sports events. In addition to these tasks, he capably manages the attendance records of all seniors and instructs woodshop classes.

R. Mann, M. Wagner, J. Kuntz

SECRETARIES

Clickity Click . . . ATTENTION — whether typing important information for the benefit of the school or making pertinent announcements over the intercommunications system, our conscientious secretaries are busy conducting the office work of our school. Mrs. Maryann Wagner, Miss Rebecca Mann, and Miss Janet Kuntz handle such secretarial and clerical work as filing, telephone calls, dictation, and meetings between students and staff members with skill and proficiency.

MRS. FLORA OBRECHT, B.A., M.A.

Whether seeking guidance for future plans or for immediate problems, one should consult a person who is well-informed in both academic and personal matters. Such a person is our girls' counselor, Mrs. Flora Obrecht. Endeavoring to help each girl attain her goals, Mrs. Obrecht interviews every girl in the school and helps each one with her particular problems.

GEORGE A. EICHLER, A.B., M.A., Ed.D.

Outlook For The Future

Teen-agers in High School today are very favored people. You have advantages which no teen-agers ever had before. Make use of every facility offered to you to prepare yourself for the future.

The estimate is that there will be more jobs for professional and skilled people, also more for semi-skilled people, but no more for unskilled people. Therefore, develop your abilities and acquire skills so that you may succeed in the years ahead. This means sincere attention to your studies now.

In addition to this develop your moral and spiritual qualities and your success will be assured.

MEDICAL STAFF

One of the most important phases of school today is our physical health. This, one of our most valuable possessions, is carefully guarded by the medical staff of our high school. They provide the best insurance for good health, that is, periodical examinations. Each student is safeguarded by a physical examination and by ear and eye tests. In addition to this, our medical staff provides careful attention when illness or accidents occur in school. Their experience and up-to-date medical knowledge insure expert treatment in any emergency.

"You mean Roger Fehnel really has a heart!" inquires Miss Stettler of Dr. Miller.

CAFETERIA PERSONNEL

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Zirinsky, the cafeteria staff of our high school prepares well-balanced meals for the students and faculty. Their hot, nutritious lunches provide the energy necessary for every student to do his best work. We know that we can always depend on Mrs. Zirinsky for faithful service throughout the school year.

CLASS POEM

From our dear Alma Mater

Time says we must depart;

Fond memories of the years we've spent

Are lingering in our hearts.

Dances, parties, sports, and books

Are all behind us now;

Our future soars beyond our dreams

But who knows where or how.

The knowledge and the strength we've gained

Will guide us through the years;

The wisdom won thru work and toil

Will free us from our fears.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Clara Schmidt, secretary; Charles Wogenrich, president;
James Bankos, treasurer; Arthur Edleman, vice-president.

Class Motto

Knowledge is Power;
Power is Success

Class Colors

Blue and White

To those who stay behind, to linger a short while longer in the comforting and protecting shadows of NAJSHS, we the senior class leave the charge of keeping her name ever bright and ever radiant. May our successors keep alive the spirit of friendliness, cooperation, and active participation in the many affairs which we have cherished. We wish the best of success to all.

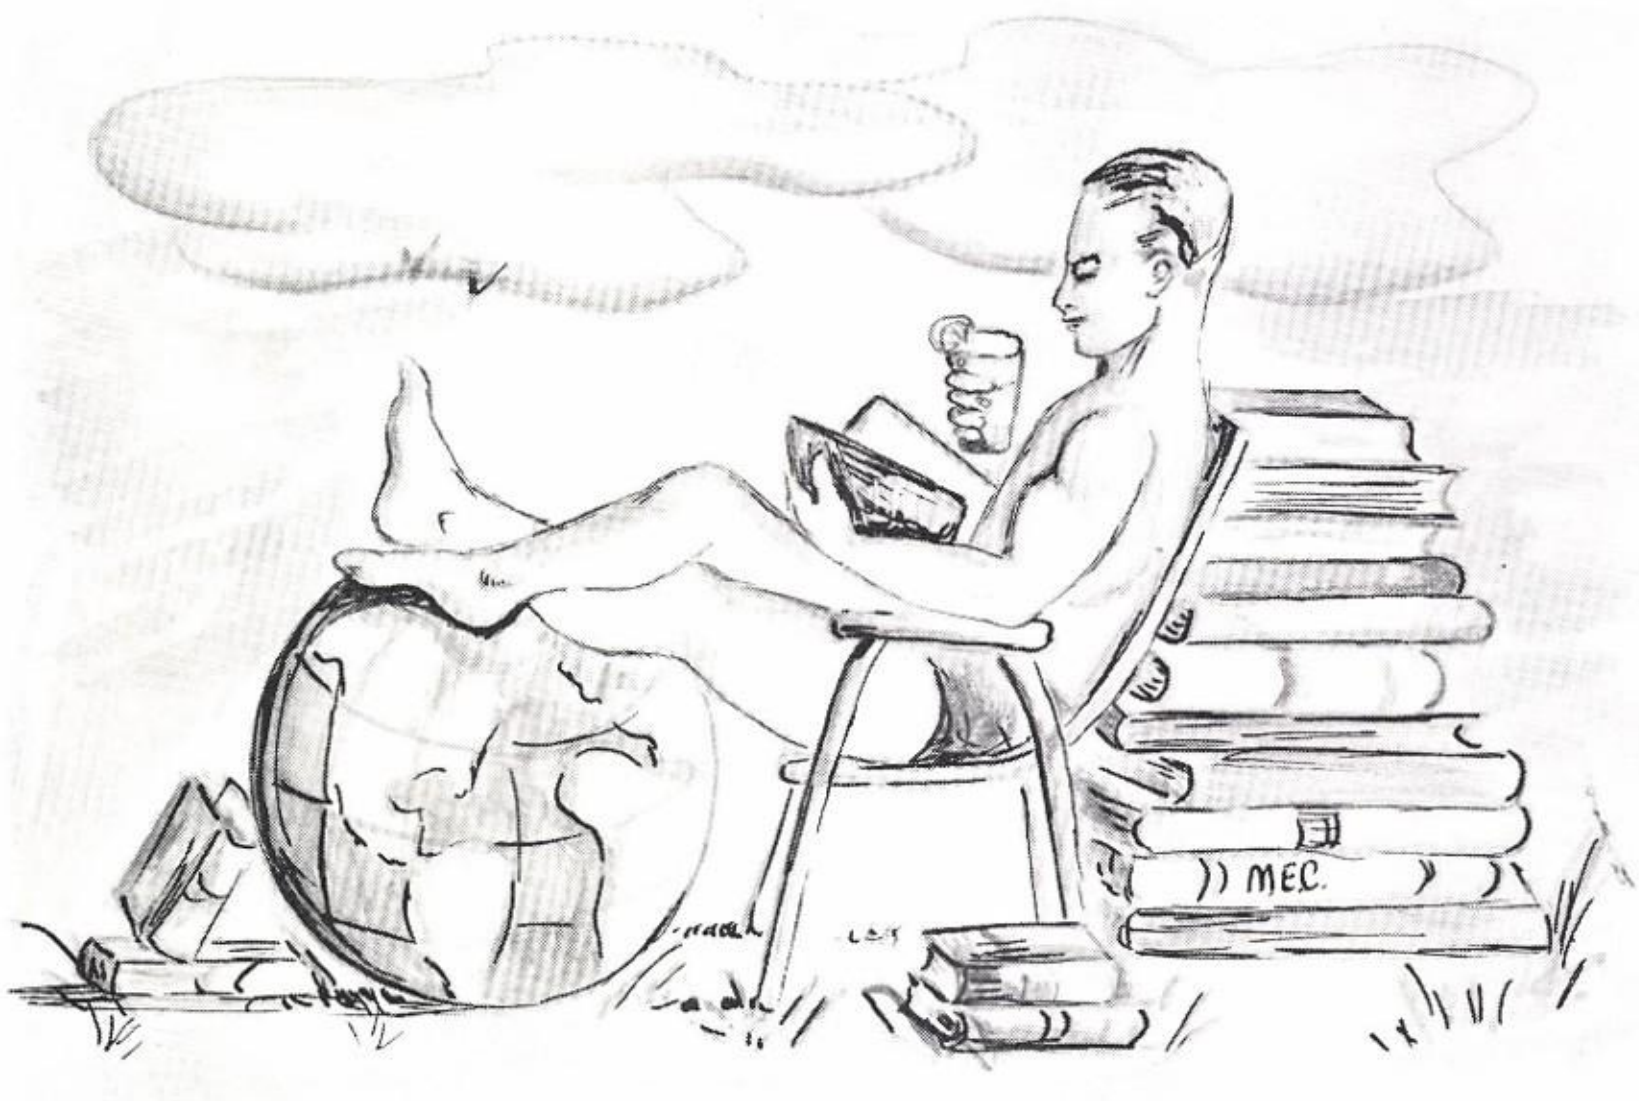
A FAREWELL MESSAGE

At the close of our senior year we may think we have come to the end of our "book-learning", but because of increasing automation and advanced technology in the industrial and business world, we will find that our education has just begun.

Therefore, Seniors, do not let the world "pass you by", continue reading, thinking, and striving for your future endeavors for which your high school education has prepared you.



IN MEMORIAM

WILLIAM EDWARD MESSENLEHNER

"Willie," as he was known to his friends, was a quiet, unassuming boy whose shy smile and subtle sense of humor endeared him not only to his teachers but also to his classmates. His interest in photography was apparent by his conscientious activity in the Photography Club! William, however, also enjoyed music and was both a member of the chorus and a trombone player in the band. Music gave him a chance to express himself as was clearly shown in his performance as "Grandpa" in "Barefoot" last spring. William liked people and, of course, people liked him. All in all, he was a boy very worthy of being called a "Konkrete Kid."

Our Al - ma Ma - ter is dear to our hearts, We
Our course has end - ed and on - ward we go,
Thanks ev' - ry one for the help that you've been, You have been loy - al and all played our parts. Now stri - ving and help - ing our qui - dance we'll show, In - se - nt us on - ward and backed us to win. And from thy port - al we all have to stray, Nor - to life's vast ness we walk with re - gret, Fond now too soon our school days here we've spent, Nor - thamp - ton High suc - cess will be our pay.

mem' - ries of years spent here we'll ne'er for - get.
thamp - ton High, our loy - al - ty will ne'er end.

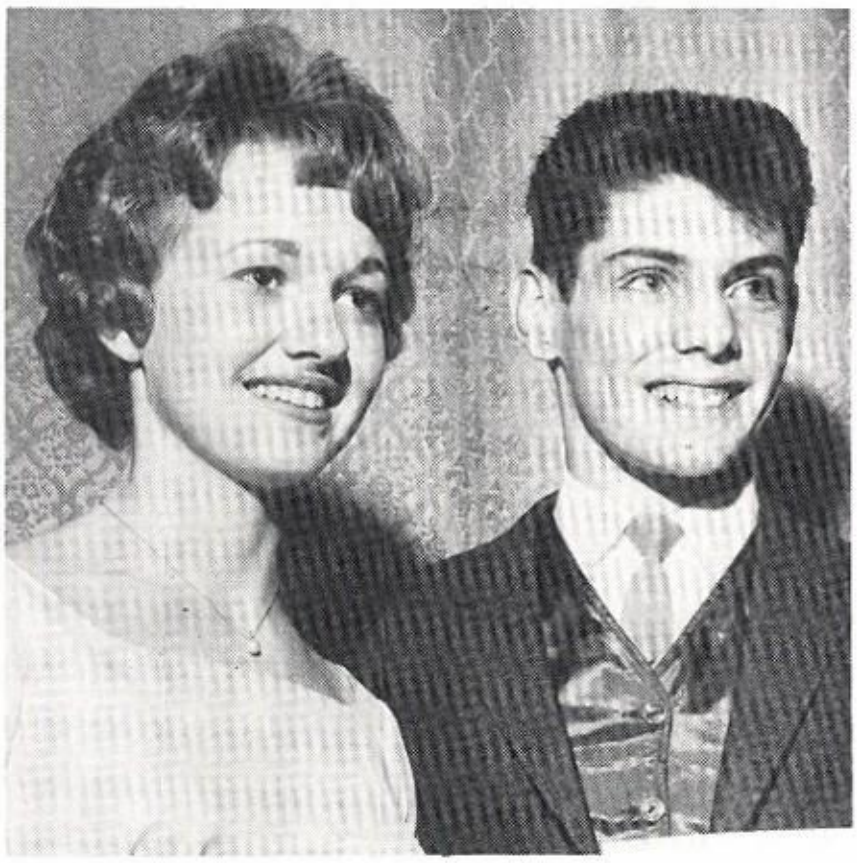
JUNIOR SPEAKING CONTEST



First place winners: Ruthann Correll and Charles Baker.

The thirty-sixth presentation of the annual Junior Speaking Contest on Wednesday, February 14, completely captivated the audience. Due mainly to the untiring efforts of the eight contestants and to their advisor, Mrs. Mary Bartow, all of whom attended many exhausting rehearsals, the performance was unquestionably a success. Entertainment during intermissions was supplied by juniors from the Girls Ensemble and the band.

The following are the participants and their selections: Joseph Sobiesiak, "Diary - The Arrival of Cain"; Anita Milkovits, "Take Me With You"; Charles Baker, "The Many Loves of Dobie Gillis"; Sylvia Lubenesky, "Sorry, Wrong Number"; Eugene Mirro, "Tragic Situation in Cuba"; Jane Oplinger, "Yellow"; Clark Kuntz, "The Day of the Big Game"; Ruth Ann Correll, "The Children of God."

First and second place girls were, respectively, Ruth Ann Correll and Jane Oplinger; and boys, Charles Baker and Clark Kuntz.

R. Druckenmiller, Advisor; D. Strouse, Vice-President; M. Perdick, Treasurer; S. Koehler, Secretary; M. Lisetski, President.

THE CLASS OF 1964

The Sophomores have reached a higher level in young adult life through the transition to the senior high. Now with sad farewells to their efficient and capable instructors, the members of the Sophomore Class blithely greet the raising of the curtain on a new year after one filled with fun and studies. They stand on the threshold of their junior year involving new schedules, subjects and teachers. Welcoming the advent of the eleventh hour in the long twelve-year educational process, the Sophomores face just two more years of school work. Within this time they will strive to a high goal of scholastic achievement to prepare for their place among intellectual leaders of the next generation.

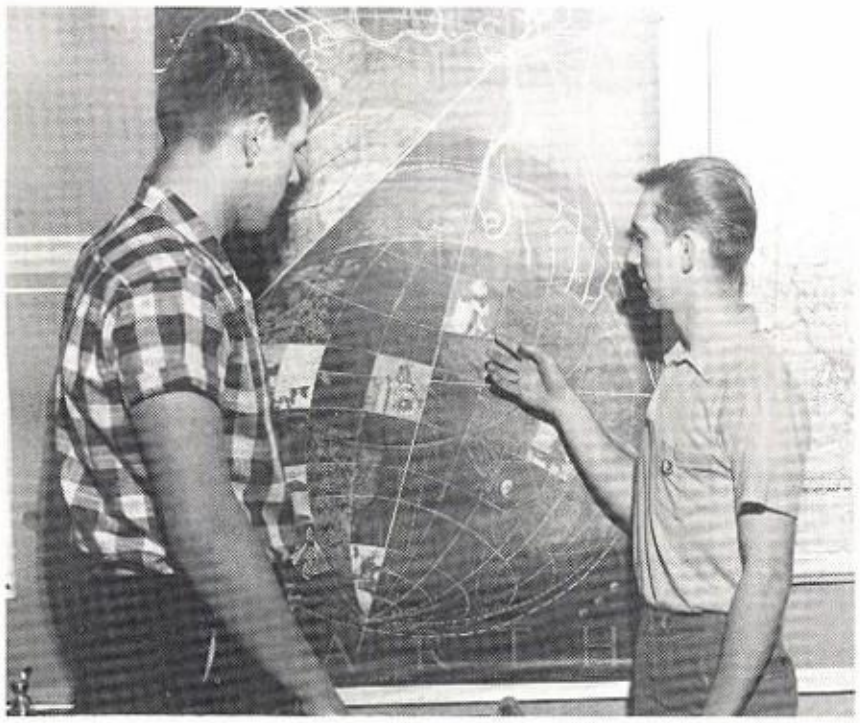
HOMEROOM 215

SENIOR

SUBJECTS



Randy Barton and Kenny Borger are looking for the inner core of the globe in Earth Science.

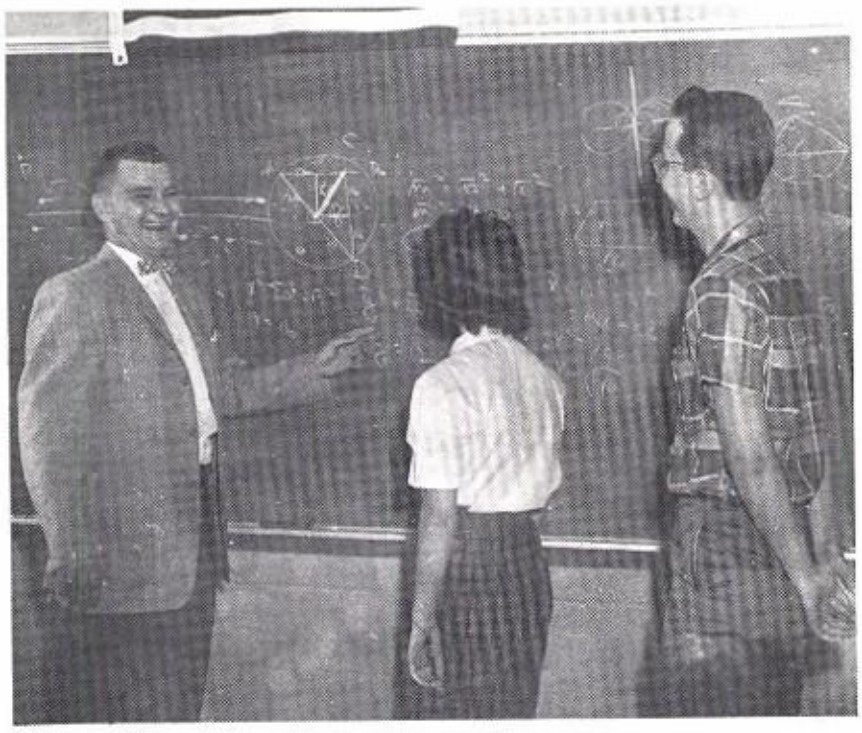
"Don't argue, the world is round!" states Mr. Wolf to Tom Schwartz and Tom Tanczos in Geography class.

SCIENCE

The scientists of the future are busily working today in the laboratories of Mr. Frailey, Mr. Reichardt, Mr. Snyder, and Mr. Balliet. Who knows what important discovery one of these potential scientists may make? Experiments and formulae seem tedious but are well worth the better understanding gained of nature and the world around us, for the earth is getting smaller, or so the earth science and geography students have been heard to say. This understanding forms a common bond of knowledge between ourselves and our neighbors around the world, a key to the secrets of the universe.

Mr. Frailey looks on as Bill Csensits experiments with the assistance of C. Seiger, D. Sawka, J. Brown, and M. Mitchell.

Maryann Puchyr and William Hyland note pressure in Physics class with Mr. Reichard.



"Plane Geometry plus students equals confusion," laughs Mr. Lindenmuth as Joan Schrantz and D. Newhard stand confused.

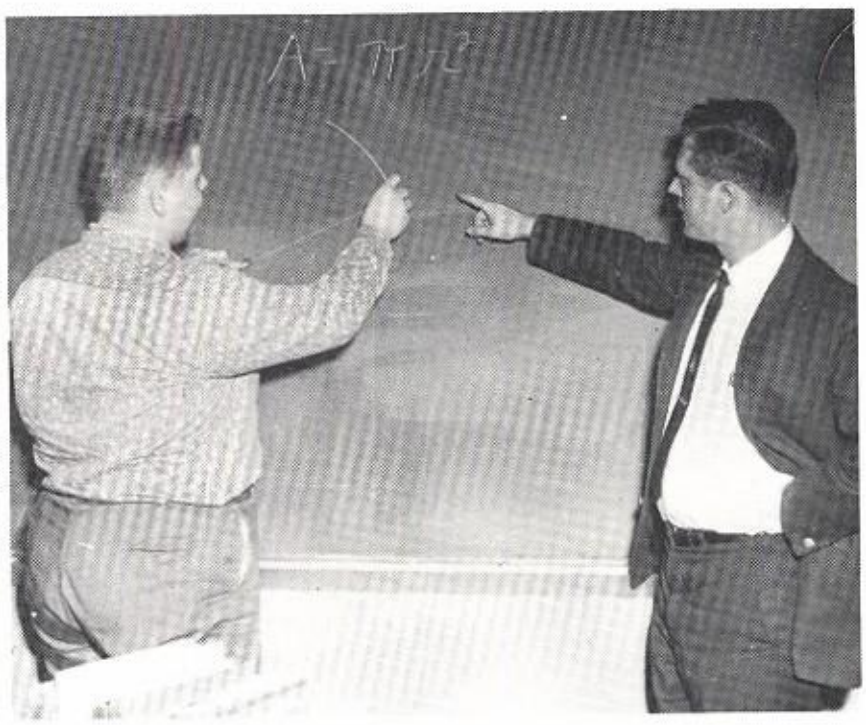
M. Coover and N. Buss making extra points in Trigonometry with Mr. Fegley.

MATHEMATICS

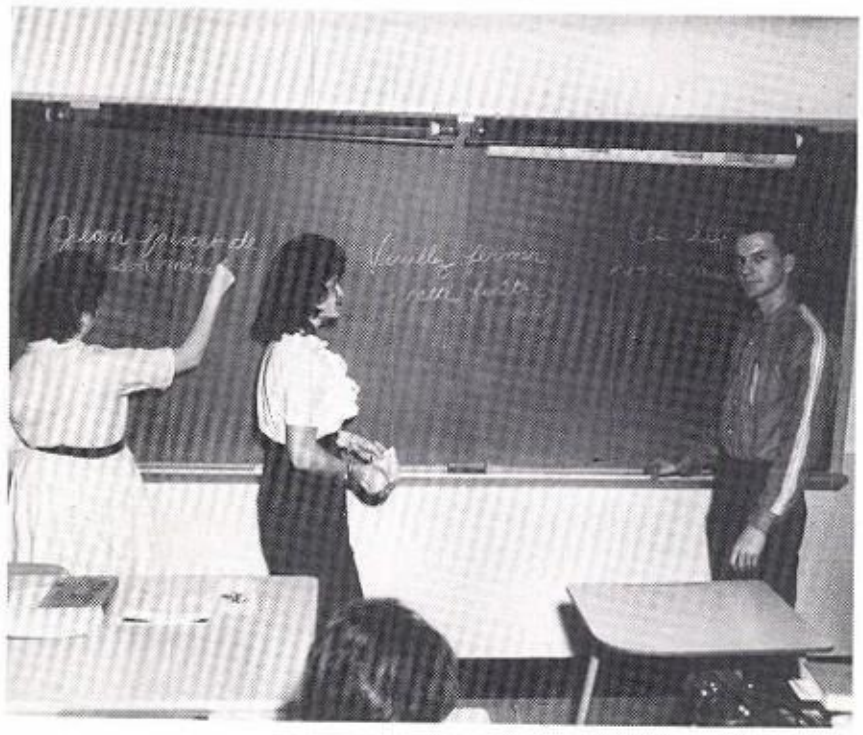
Math is the scientist's key. It is an intrinsic part of science, for it is the language in which scientific concepts are written down. The ancient Greeks deemed it the basis for a scholarly education, and, today, our government is placing renewed emphasis on the study of math for technological advancement. Diligent attention to the study of mathematics trains the mind in the processes of clear, precise thinking which will be of immense value in future years. Under the careful guidance of Mr. Kindt, Mr. Weir, Mr. Fegley, and Mr. Lindenmuth, this will be achieved.

Mr. Weir gives C. Keiser, C. Person and S. Asbath some pointers on tax deductions.

D. Strauss strings along with Mr. Kindt.



"English all originated here," states D. Loch to D. Becker, D. Silfies, R. Becker, and M. Smallen.



"Parlez-vous francais?" asks F. Galler, C. Geary, and T. Smith.

LANGUAGES

"During the Roman times, the back of a slave was used for a dartboard," remarks Miss Marion Laubach to a horrified class. Latin has had a great influence on the formation of modern languages. Among them, German, French, English, and Spanish are taught at NAJSHS. These various languages are the gateway to international understanding as can be seen by the influence of the Peace Corps volunteers in their efforts to help underdeveloped nations around the world. Through study of another country's language and culture, we are able to understand more fully the nations and peoples of the world of which we are such a vital part.

Mr. Roney asks, "Deutschen Kommen von Deutschland," of native German Karen Kruger while interested L. Barter and I. Mann look on.

W. Chayka wonders, "comprende Espanol torro?"

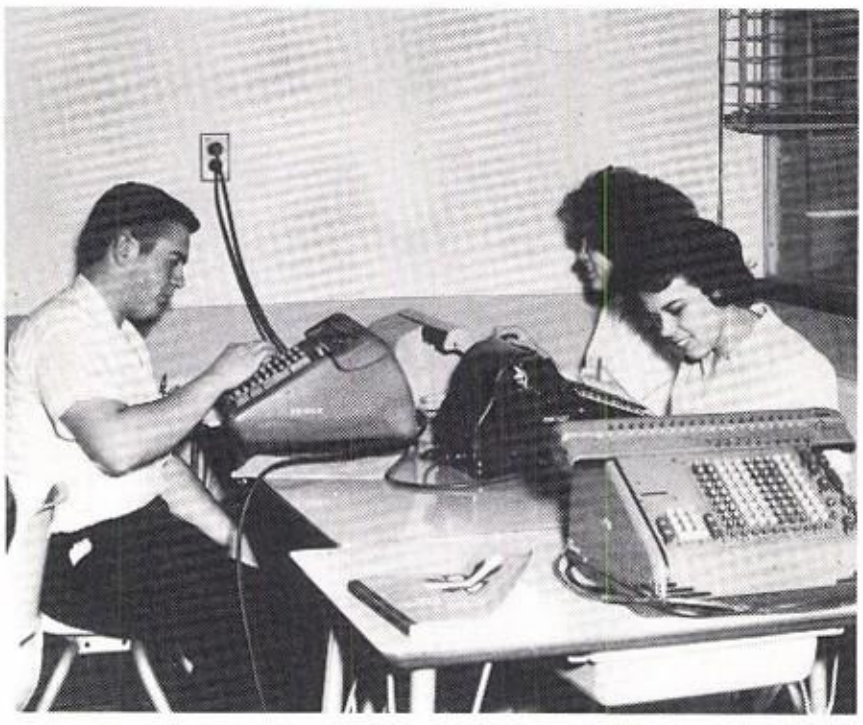
"Now is the time for all good typists to come to the aid of their teachers," type N. Becker and J. Fatzinger.

Mrs. Geiger's class learns to write shorthand the long way.

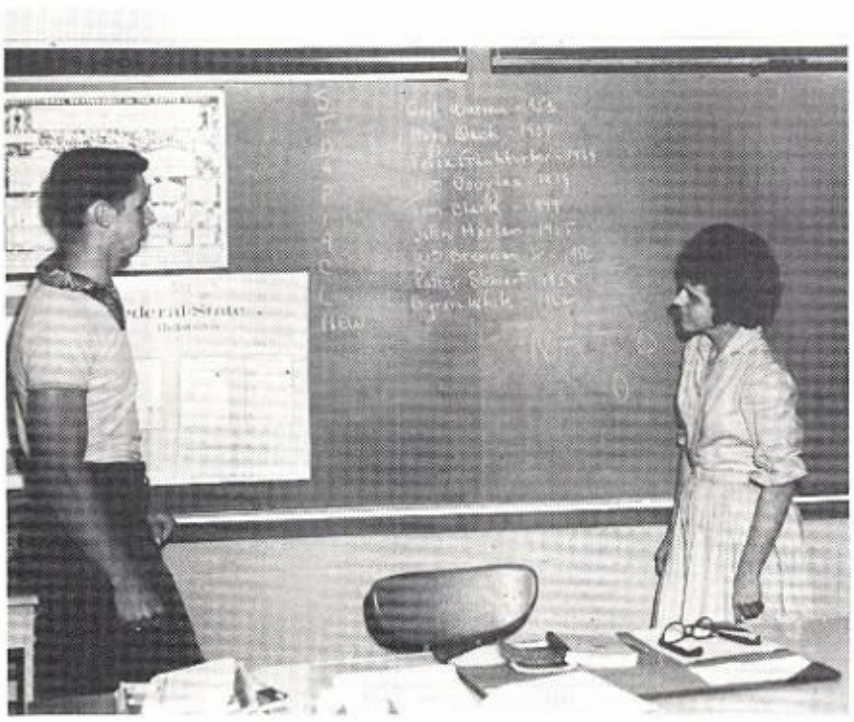
SECRETARIAL

Our future secretaries industriously study typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping. From changing typewriter ribbons to taking dictation, the students prepare for prospective jobs after graduation. In addition to their ordinary school activities, they also act as secretaries to the teachers. Mrs. Hallman, Mrs. Geiger, and Mr. Schneck are the teachers of the secretarial subjects: typing, shorthand, and bookkeeping.

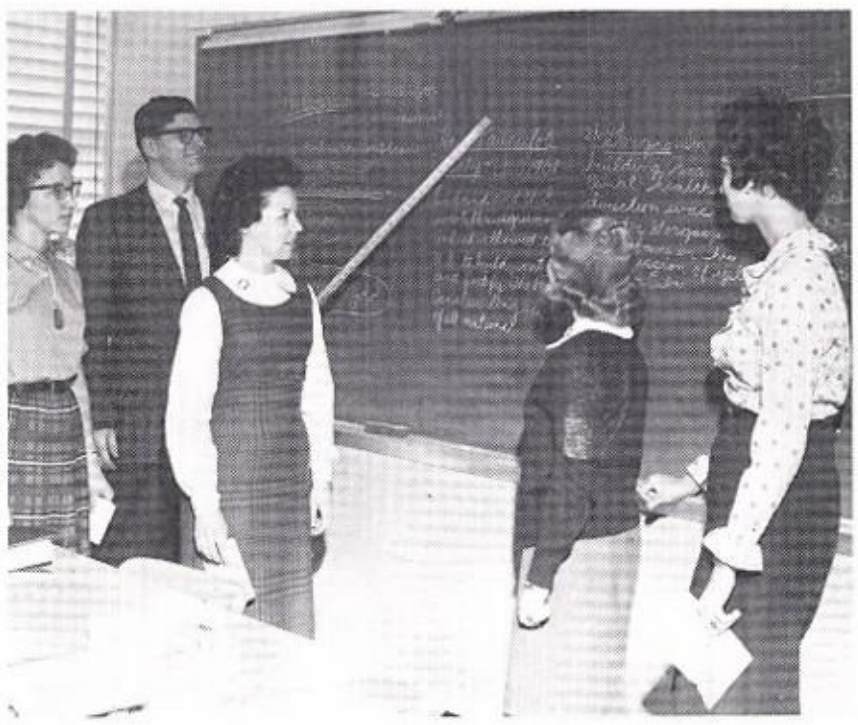
Calculating the easy way are J. Nierer, M. Klement and P. Shoemaker.



"What a mess of keys!" say P. Fenstermaker and R. Kern to Mr. Schneck.



Our Legislators of the future, S. Asbath and W. Kocher, study the Justices of the Supreme Court in Problems of Democracy class.



"Oh, will we ever learn who signed what treaty and where?" ask S. Engler, N. Hess, T. Dornbach, and E. Kohler of Mr. Pany.

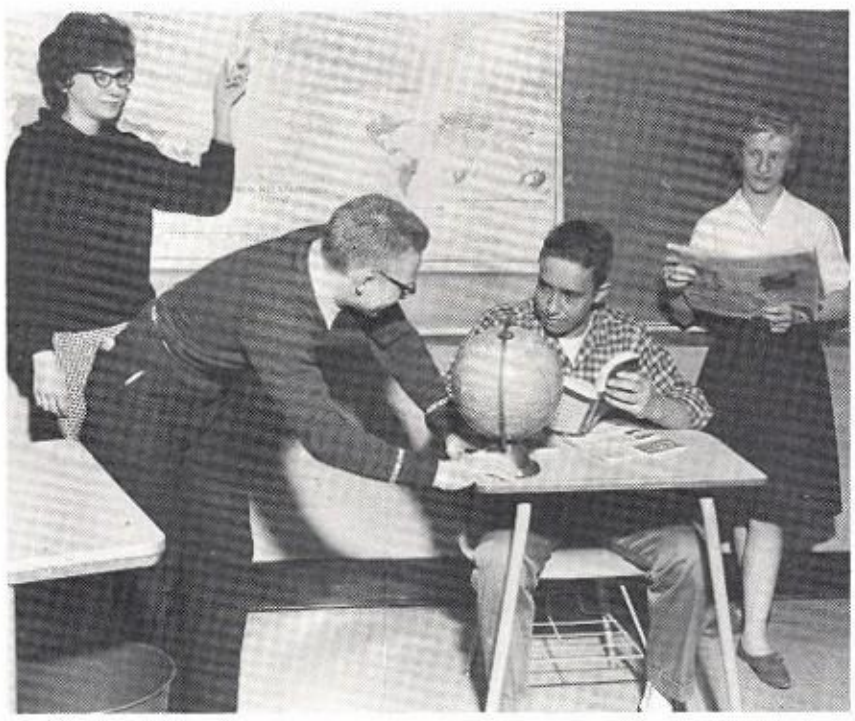
SOCIAL STUDIES

"International!" signals the start of Mr. Lisetski's Problems of Democracy class with the omnipresent news reports. Discussion of modern history, current events, and the functions of local, state, and federal governments gives the senior an excellent background for his future interests in politics and elections.

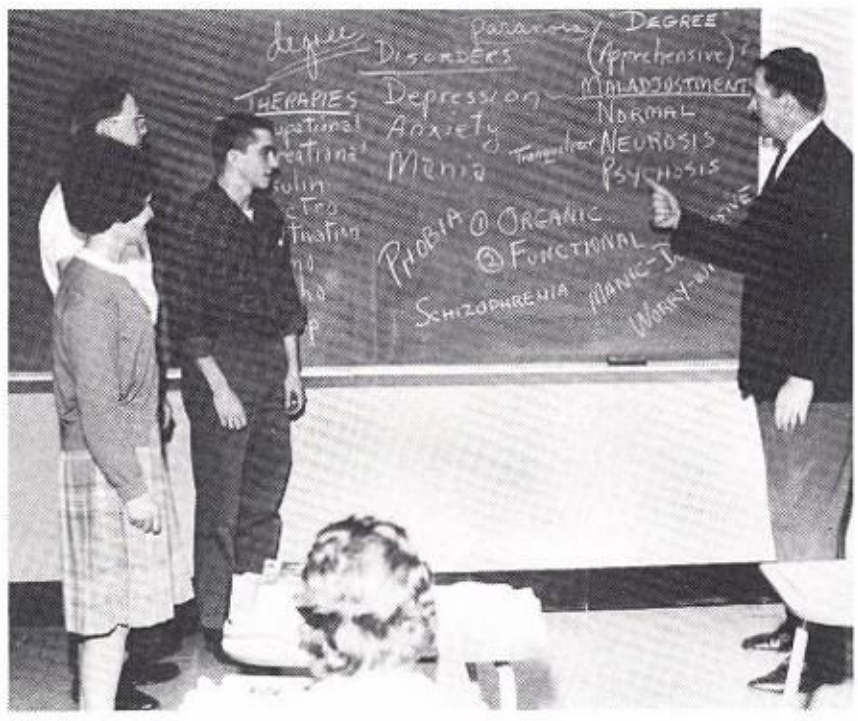
In the classrooms of Mr. Pany and Mr. Kressley, the juniors are taught the fundamentals of American History. As they delve into the realms of our country's past, their understanding and pride in our nation's policies and ideals becomes strengthened.

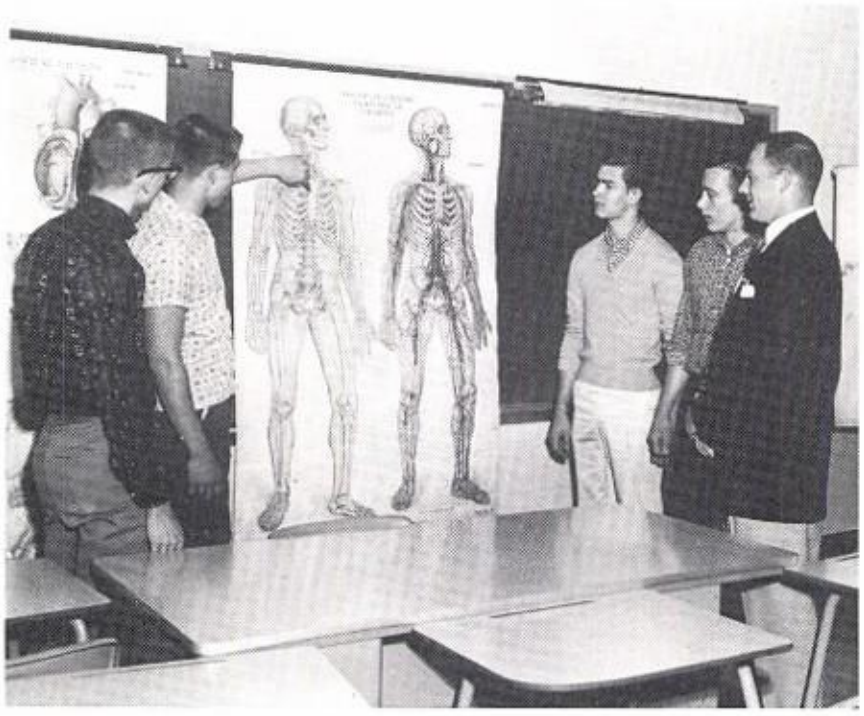
Meanwhile, the sophomores, under the direction of Mr. Witemeyer and Mr. Druckenmiller, explore the foothills of culture in World History classes. Before they can learn to interpret the world of today, they must first learn the intricacies of the relationships and backgrounds of the nations of the world.

"Sophomores, O Sophomores learn your world history, or you'll be sorry." (Wise words from the seniors to R. Berg, L. Spaihts, and L. Reimer.)



Mr. Schneider points out some of the oddities of our senior class to C. Kopfer, T. Fehnel, J. DeNardo.





"Isn't this the femur bone?" asks D. Sawka of Mr. Oplinger. as C. Sieger, L. Beil, and F. Herzog look on in health class.

"Now where does this belong?" ponders Mrs. Krall and her 122 class.

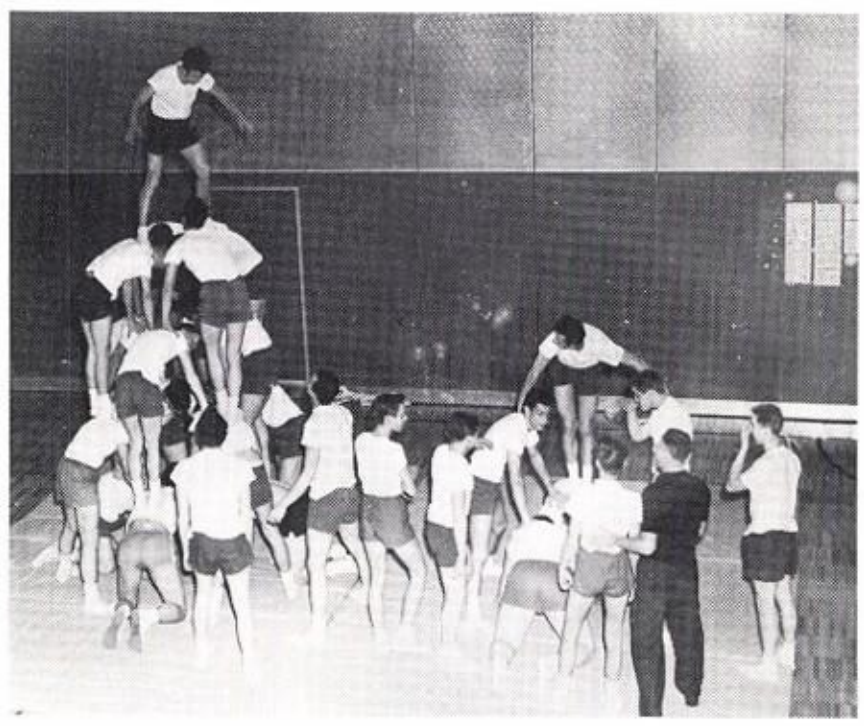
HEALTH

To be able to cope with the situations which arise in every day life, we know that we must be well-balanced physically, mentally, and emotionally. In order that we can achieve physical well-being, Mrs. Krall and Mr. Oplinger instruct us in the anatomical structure and make-up of the body's systems.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

A sound mind and a sound body — this is, perhaps, the basic goal of education. Miss Kremus and Mr. Erdosy are here to provide an opportunity for each student to build a strong body. Regular Gym classes each week allow the student to participate in outdoor sports and become acquainted with gym apparatus which provides the greatest challenge to his abilities.

"No, this is not Egypt," says Mr. Erdosy, "It's the boys' gym class.



She goes head over heels for "Gym".

ART

ELECTIVES

"This is art class?" wonder R. Kratzer and J. Legath.

These juniors are learning a new thrill in learning to drive with Mr. Wahl.

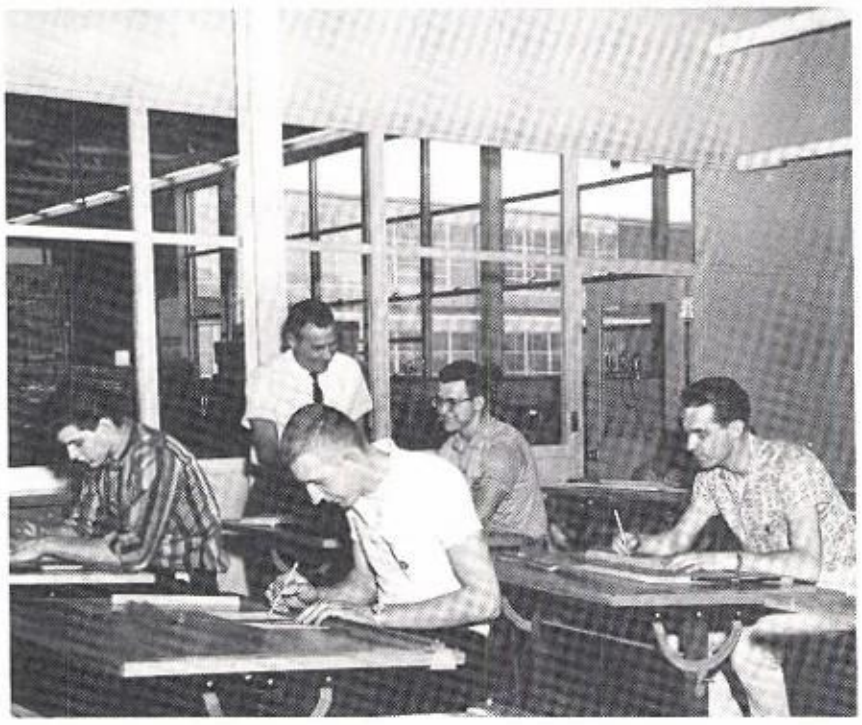
The innermost feelings of the students can be expressed in the art and music classes. Great satisfaction is attained when the student artist displays his claywork, oil painting, silk screen printing, or ceramic jewelry. Mr. Kleppinger allows each person to choose his field of endeavor, never demanding work in a specific field. The musical talents of the instrumental students are developed by Mr. Becker and his assistant, Mr. Heim. Mrs. Santee, who stresses that music appreciation can be learned only by careful study, sows the seeds of fine music in her students and reaps a harvest of music lovers at the end of each term.

Mr. Becker teaches a new song to Dean in instrumental music.

A fine music appreciation class conducted by Mrs. Santee.

SHOP

ELECTIVES



"Now that line is straight," instructs Mr. Reiff as R. Green and C. Seltzer diligently draw their lines straight too.

Buzzing saws, whirling drills, and pounding hammers bring to mind our modern shop area. Aided by capable instructors, the boys exhibit their talents by fashioning beautiful and useful objects in wood and metal. In the mechanical drawing course the future draftsmen and engineers learn design and form in architecture and machinery. The printshop is an integral part of our school system. The students, who practice the art of printing, are learning while they work by printing schedules, programs, and report cards as a part of their assignments. The shop courses, coupled with a thorough academic schedule, give the boys an excellent background for their future occupations.

You're supposed to be working boys!!

STUDENT COUNCIL

The Student Council is the proving ground for democracy. The members study school problems and promote good study and dress habits. To develop good school spirit, posters have been used to announce student activities and athletic events. Filling Red Cross boxes, soliciting patrons for the Northampton-Catty book, and securing housing facilities for the District Chorus members are a few of the duties of the Council members. Under the guidance of Mr. Alfred Laubach, the Council has sponsored pep rallies, the dance for District Chorus, and the winter and spring proms. To make school life more purposeful and more enjoyable are the duties of the Student Council.

Council sponsors the District Chorus dance.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

National Honor rites are conducted for new members.

One of the oldest student organizations is the Northampton chapter of the National Honor Society. The twenty five members represent the upper fifteen per cent of the senior class. Membership is accorded to those students who display the qualities of leadership, scholarship, character, and service. Under the guidance of Miss Marion Laubach, the society maintains its high standards of academic achievement by sponsoring a tutoring system.

GIRLS' GYM TEAM

Under the supervision of Miss Kremus and Mrs. Krall, the girl's gym team worked vigorously and diligently in developing their skills on the various pieces of apparatus. On Thursday and Friday mornings, the girls could be seen performing difficult stunts on the rings, Swedish box, side horse, mats, and the trampoline. Their proficiency was exhibited by their fine performance in the gymnastic demonstration held on May 3 in the gym.

BOYS' GYM TEAM

The boy's gym team, a group of exceptionally physically fit specimens, under the guidance of Messrs. Al Erdosy and Jim Oplinger, practice long and strenuously to acquire proficiency on the various gymnastic apparatus. Their efforts, skills, and showmanship culminated in their performance in the May gym exhibition. This excellent, well-trained team is worthy of all the praise and recognition bestowed upon it.

MIXED CHORUS

Mixed chorus is comprised of two other choral organizations: Boys' Chorus, a rich harmonizing concord of deep tones, and Girls' Chorus, a sweet blend of charming voices. The music department can point with pride to the quality of the chorus members. Performing both separately and in combination, the two choruses produce enchanting music to delight the listener.

GIRLS' ENSEMBLE

Under the capable direction of Mrs. Thelma Santee, the Girls Ensemble diligently strives to improve their vocal techniques. A talented group of twenty-six girls, the members of the Girls Ensemble blend their voices in melodious song.

MIXED ENSEMBLE

The six boys and six girls of the Mixed Ensemble master the art of combining motions with the words of the songs they sing to produce comical effects. Besides singing for the school functions such as Christmas Vespers and Spring Concert, they also perform for churches, clubs, and other organizations during the year.

BAND

Here comes the school band! What an impressive picture the members make in their immaculate black and orange uniforms! Notice the precision they display in drill and marching. This proficiency is the result of long hours of rehearsal under the direction of Mr. Raymond Becker and his assistant, Mr. Robert Heim. Whether at football games or at the spring concert, the band adds immensely to the enjoyment of any activity. Our band is, indeed, an essential part of any student activity.

COLORGUARDS

What band is complete without the colorguards? In one of the oldest traditions of our school, colorguards display an impressive row of colors as they lead the NAJSHS band. The six colorguards and two bearers are headed by Colorguard Sergeant Roseann Horvath who has worked out various martial routines which the girls perform at football games and in parades.

MAJORETTES

As the band provided music and rhythm, the majorettes added interest and entertainment. This group of twelve girls performed at every football game and participated in various parades. This year, under the direction of head majorette Christine Sharkazy, the squad ably executed routines that required both skill and precision, capturing the approval of everyone by their efforts. The endeavors of these girls will not be soon forgotten, because in them, as well as in other organizations, lies the spirit and vigor of the student body.

". . . T E A M, Team!" This is what we hear as the "Rah-Rah" girls of NAJSHS lead the roaring throng in another cheer urging our team on to victory. Coached by Miss Joan Kremus and captained by Loretta Hunsberger, these girls in their striking orange and black uniforms can also be seen during "time-out" in basketball games, pepping up the crowd with new or familiar cheers they have perfected in long hours of practice.

N-CLUB

"Booster tag, anyone?" is the slogan of the N-Club member. This spirit-promoting club is under the direction of Mr. Harry Witemeyer. This year the N-Club again sponsored the sale of booster tags for football games as well as track and baseball. In promoting school spirit, it is the vital link between success and failure of the activity. For the hard work put forth by its members, the N-Club awards the coveted black and orange sweater to the eligible at commencement.

The CONCRETE COURIER

Writing, proofreading, typing, and pasting describe the various stages of production for the next edition of the CONCRETE COURIER. Mr. Harry B. Wall's room 213 is a flurry of activity as the reporters compose the news and sports stories. Controversial editorials, cartoons, and feature articles add color to the student publication. To keep the student body, faculty, and alumni informed is the main objective of the nine monthly publications of the school newspaper.

PHOTO CLUB

The Photo Club records all school events on film. The hard-working boys photograph the highlights of all student activities, whether they are athletic, dramatic, or musical events. Under the direction of Mr. John Frailey, the club members print the photos for the Amptennian and for anyone who wishes to purchase a copy. As a service to the underclassmen, the Photo Club took shots of the junior and sophomore homerooms and sold them to interested students.

BETA TRI-HI-Y

"To create high standards of Christian living," is the main purpose of the Tri-Hi-Y. The Beta Tri-Hi-Y under the direction of Mrs. V. Bollman sponsors several projects throughout the school term. Besides their participation in planning the Sadie Hawkin's Day dance, they also stuff tovs for the Good Shepherd Home and sell savings stamps. "Clean Sports! Clean Speech! Good living!" are the standards which they readily adhere to.

ALPHA ZETA TRI-HI-Y

Alpha Zeta Tri-Hi-Y, the counterpart of the Beta, also sponsors many effective projects throughout the term. They sell stationery, book covers and savings stamps; collect food at Christmas for the needy families; and buy clothing for two indigent children at Easter. No one will ever forget the successful Sadie Hawkin's Day dance which the Alpha Zeta and Beta co-sponsored. Under the able supervision of Mrs. M. Bartow: the girls abide by their slogan, "Pure words, pure thoughts, and pure action."

SCIENCE AND MATH CLUB

And here is our "Future Einstein's of Northampton" club. Under the supervision of Robert Snyder, the students interested in the magic world of numbers and science are able to satisfy their desire for more advanced study. The use of student lectures, special projects, and open discussions enable the pupils to get the most from the organization. In this world of an increasing emphasis on science and mathematics, these students are progressing further into its realms through their association with this club.

ASSEMBLIES

From an exposé of wrestling to the "Romance of Words," our assemblies offer topics on a variety of subjects. Assembly provides the one opportunity for our entire student body to share in the same activity. In the many presentations during the school year, numerous speakers both entertained us and helped us plan for the future by informing us about the present. Many public organizations have thus co-operated with the school administration to bring us interesting programs.

Which student production would be complete without the industrious boys and girls who work backstage? The stage crew assembles and arranges the properties for the Christmas Vespers, Senior Class Play, and Spring Concert. Unusual lighting effects for the varying moods of the programs are devised by Mr. Harry Witemeyer and his lighting crew. Under the guidance of Mr. Edgar Balliet, the projection crew shows the movies for assemblies and for the individual teachers. Also, they take care of the various projectors. A big thank-you is extended to all the students who have served on the crews throughout the year.

Aunt Philippa and Jean — money worries.

"Oil!" exclaims Jean as Royal, Peter, Ruth, Wally, and Aunt Philippa look on in disbelief.

"What are you doing here?" rants Sam at his niece Bess.

Jean and Wally smiling but still feuding.

As Aunt Philippa serves, Peter and Bess drink a toast to Jean's financial genius.

"Oh Bess!" dreams Peter as Wally sleeps unconcerned.

"Good-bye Wally" sighs Bess.

SYNOPSIS

Imagine a secluded woodland with three boys, three girls, and a maiden aunt for company, and you will have a good idea of this year's class play. Jean Warren, who is traveling south with her sister Ruth and Aunt Philippa, meets Wally Frazer, son of a wealthy capitalist, and his two friends, Peter Davis and Royal Murphy, in a grove near a dilapidated farm house. An old flame of the boys, ex-chorus girl Bess Beggs, appears, and old Mr. Beggs demands they get off his property or buy it. When Jean, whom Wally loves but who spurns him, offers to buy the worthless land, Wally bids against her to stop her from making what he is convinced is a dreadful mistake. Jean convinces old Beggs that Wally has delusions in which he thinks he is the son of a wealthy industrialist and offers her entire fortune of four thousand dollars for the farm. After they complete the sale and Beggs leaves, Jean shouts with joy. Now they are rich — she has discovered oil!

Later Bess tells Wally the oil is a fake; she planted it to entice someone into buying the place. He and Bess try every way they can think of to buy the land from Jean before she finds out, but of course, these attempts only make Jean more sure she has done the right thing. Finally Bess appeals to Jean's sympathy and buys her quarter share which she promptly sells to Wally. This makes Jean furious and she turns to Peter for consolation. Old Beggs finds out the oil's planted and tells the girls. Jean sees how foolish she was and makes up with Wally. To complete a happy ending Royal discovers a rich vein of clay which his father will buy from Jean and Wally for forty thousand dollars. Ruth and Royal plan to get married. And Sam Beggs, in the style of all those whose attempts to defraud others, moans, "Swindled again!"

SENIOR CHRISTMAS PARTY

Fun, food and folly, mistletoe and holly,
Santa brought us cheer and mirth which made our party jolly.

Santa's gifts for Christmas —
Terry Schneider and Cheryl Keiser.

Donning the Christmas spirit, the seniors celebrated the coming winter vacation with dancing and gaiety. We were even fortunate enough to have Santa Claus (Jeff Cole) pop in and present us with gifts. Popular music was supplied by disc-jockey Allen Borda. The party, held in the cafeteria, was sponsored by the student council who were responsible for the beautiful decorations.

WINTER PROM

Strains of gay music, dimmed lights, and a festive wintery atmosphere set the scene for the "Winter Fantasia". The Prom was held on Jan. 20 in the traditional Community Center which was beautifully decorated with greens and angel hair, silhouettes of skaters and shining stars making the mood very romantic. The Student Council members worked assiduously arranging all the last minute details. Dancing to the music of "Debonairs," those who attended will never forget the wonderful time they had.

The poor shepherd and the little children of many lands come to adore the Virgin Mary and the Holy Child.

One by one the members of the Senior High Mixed Chorus passed down the aisles carrying lighted candles and joyously singing to the strains of "Adeste Fideles" as played on the piano and organ by Marjorie Kochenash and Lynette Roberts, respectively. This marked the beginning of the fifteenth annual Christmas Vespers service of Northampton High. Through soloists, musical arrangements, speakers, and tableaux, the audience thrilled once more to the re-enactment of the beautiful story of our Savior's birth. Then as each individual candle flickered out and the chorus members sang the last impressive strains of the Benediction, the production came to a mellifluous close for another year.

The Christmas Vesper speakers are T. Smith, C. Sieger, L. Wall, E. White, N. Yohn, C. Woginrich, and S. Hilberg.

EASTERN DISTRICT CHORUS

The Northampton Area Senior High School had the honor of being chosen host to the annual Eastern District High School Chorus. Under Mrs. Santee's direction, the faculty and students worked diligently arranging transportation, program, housing facilities, meals, and rehearsals for the one hundred and seventy-five top vocalists (fifteen from our school) who represent forty-seven high schools in the Eastern District of the Pennsylvania Music Educators Association.

Dr. John D. Raymond, because of his many years of experience in music, was selected to head the District Chorus. He is head of the Lafayette College Music Department and not only has conducted bands and vocal choruses but also has judged music contests in thirty-two states.

The program, presented on the evenings of April 13 and 14, comprised a range of works from compositions by Haydn and Brahms to folk songs and spirituals.

ARTS EXHIBIT

Whether or not you possess artistic talent, you can enjoy the art and shop exhibit. Throughout the year the art, shop, and home economics students work to complete their projects in order to achieve recognition in the exhibit. Mrs. Bollman, Mr. Kleppinger, Mr. Fujita, and Mr. Alek Erdosy choose the best projects to be displayed in the two-day presentation. To top off the exhibit, which was held May 8 and 9 at the Community Center, the girls from the home economics department modeled their creations in a fashion show.

Fashions from Northampton, that may appear someday in Paris, are creations by Mrs. Virginia Bollman's girls from the home economics department.

GYM EXHIBITION

The Second Annual Senior High Gym Exhibition, held on May 3, opened with the execution of the "Waterfall" in which all the members of both the boy's and girl's gym teams participated. Under the competent leadership of their instructors Miss Joan Kremus, Mrs. E. J. Krall, Mr. Al Erdosy, and Mr. Jim Oplinger, the teams performed on the high bar, trampoline, Swedish box, long-horse, side horse, flying rings, parallel bars, and in calisthenics and girl's tumbling. For the closing selection the entire company built various types of human pyramids and the show ended with tumultuous applause.

The Konkrete Kids paced by seniors Charlie Woginrich, Rich Spengler, and John Siekonic, finished the season with a 9-12 won-lost record. After some surprise wins in the first half, the Kids opened the second half with a shocking upset over Palmerton. WRESTLING

During the first year of split-league activity, Northampton's grapplers captured their division title with a 7-0 league record. Although no individual remained undefeated, a splendid team effort resulted in a winning season. The independent matches added two wins and three defeats to the total. Northampton finished third by a one-point margin in the district meet and advanced three men as district champions.

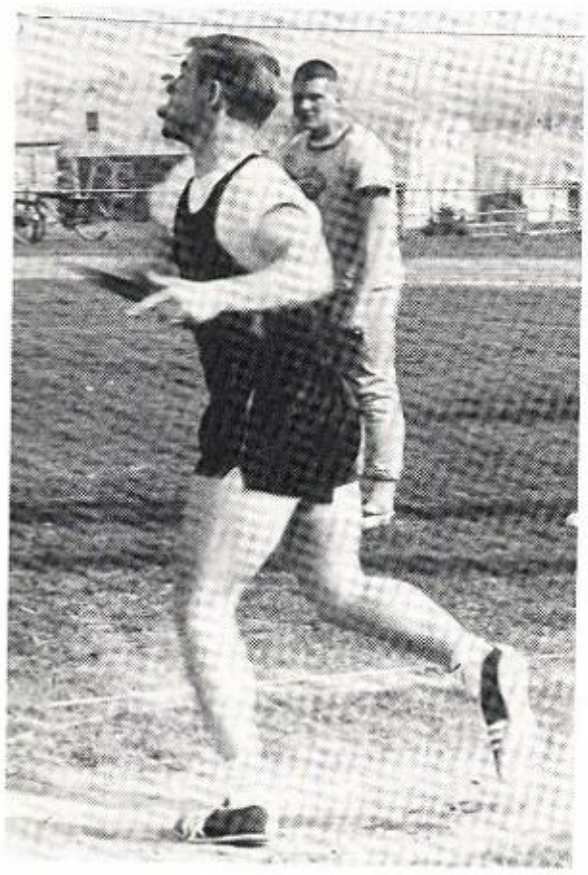
TRACK

Sticking your tongue out won't make the discus fly any further, Mr. Rice.



Coach Richard Reimer's trackmen have run into difficulties thus far in the season. Due to a lack of experience, natural talent, and good weather necessary for practice, the Konkrete Kids have not been able to develop into a team which might effectively compete for the league title.

However, even if the season as a whole has looked black, there has been a bright spot. Senior Charlie Woginrich has gone undefeated in pole vault competition. He has established a new field record of 11' 10¾". At the Emery Relays in Bethlehem, Charlie set a new Class A2 record of 11' 10½".

The team is improving, and, with three meets, the League Meet, and the District 11 Tourney yet to be held, the track team may be able to bring home some laurels.

F. Herzog, S. Asbath, and R. Bird find out that sometimes your best isn't quite enough.

FAMOUS GRADUATES

We pause to remember a few of the graduates who have enriched the name of Northampton High School. Their outstanding achievements characterized by initiative and hard work have brought them prominent recognition in their chosen vocations. They have become the type of citizen which America is proud to acknowledge.

Dr. Irvin H. Solt, Jr.

Dr. Irvin H. Solt, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin H. Solt, Sr. of R.D. 2, Northampton, graduated from Northampton High School in 1946. With his basic interests in the field of science, he went on to receive a bachelor of science degree from Yale University in 1950 and was awarded a doctorate in physics from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1954.

Dr. Solt is now head of the Microwave Physics Section of Fairchild's Research and Development Laboratories at Palo Alto, California where he now resides. His work consists of investigating the applications of semiconductor technology to microwave components. He has published papers in the Physical Review, The Journal of Applied Physics and The Reviews of Scientific Instruments.

Betty Seidel

Overlooking the peaceful countryside, historic Cherryville Inn stands. The inn now houses the enchanting Betty Seidel Gift Shops where artist-designer Betty Seidel has gathered together some of the finest creations to be found anywhere. Betty, who graduated from Northampton High School in 1932, is internationally known for her achievements in the art world. An example of her artwork may be found in the NAJSHS student lounge where the plate she designed commemorating President Eisenhower's first birthday in the White House is now mounted. The plate is done in her famous Pennsylvania Dutch motif and is now a collector's item. Another example of her artwork may be found in the Hotel Traylor's Pennsylvania Dutch Coffee Shop, exclusively designed by Betty. Indeed, Betty Seidel merits the honor of being named one of Northampton's most famous graduates.

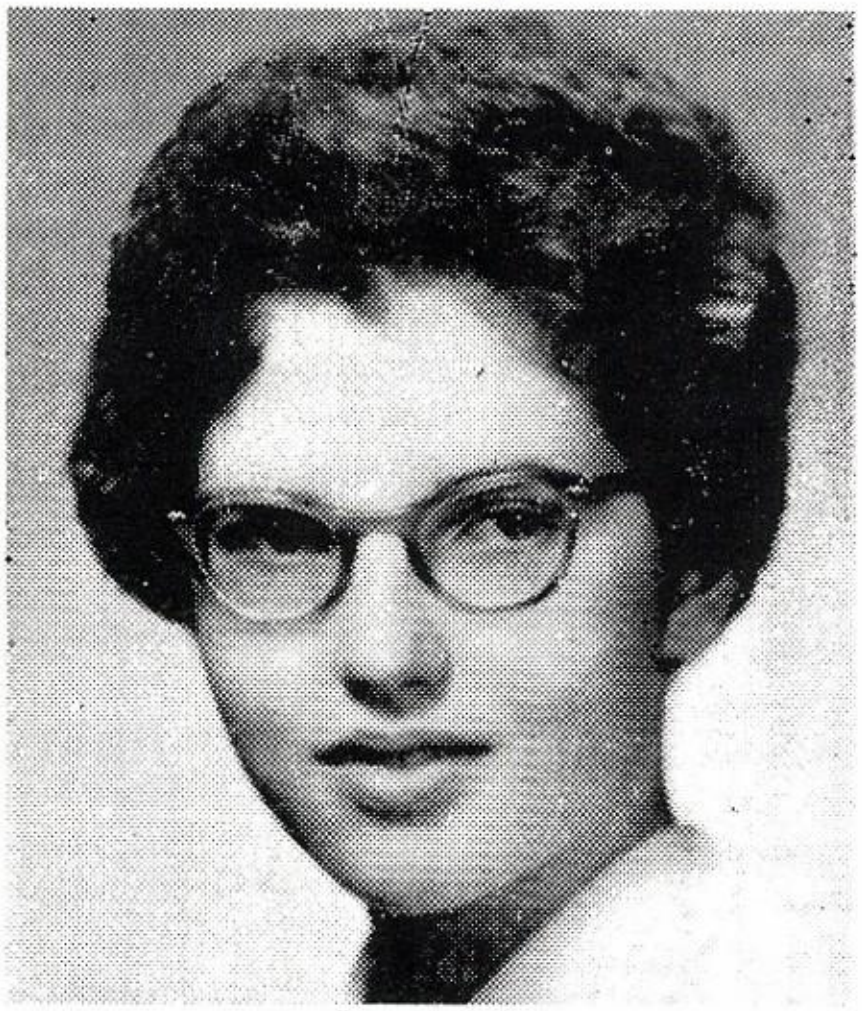
FAMOUS GRADUATES

Jack Seidel

Betty's brother, Jack, has also achieved fame through his excellent cartoon work. Jack is nationally known for his development of "My Friend, Irma," which was also on radio and consequently made into two motion pictures.

Jack now resides in Glendora, California, with his wife and two sons where he has his own shop and designs "the cards the stars buy" — unique greeting cards with that humorous effect.

Prior to the establishment of his own business, Jack had worked with the celebrated Walt Disney. Jack can readily be called another Northampton High famous graduate, and we compliment him on his fine achievements and special proficiency in this particular phase of art.



Margaret M. Kozero

Margaret M. Kozero, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Kozero of 1631 Main Street, Northampton, has also established herself in the world of art. Margaret's interests in school were chiefly in modern art and music. After graduation in 1957, she majored in Industrial Design at the Philadelphia Museum College of Art. Margaret now resides at 421 Philip Street, Detroit 15, Michigan, where she is employed by the General Motors Technical Center as an automotive designer on the Pontiac staff.

FAMOUS GRADUATES

Leon C. Kuntz Jr.

Leon C. Kuntz, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon C. Kuntz, Sr. of Bath, Pennsylvania, is well known for his achievements in the world of music. After graduation in 1950, Leon attended the New School of Music in Philadelphia and also the Juliard School of Music in New York.

While in school Leon participated in many musical activities and also played with the district, regional, and state bands. Leon is now playing the French horn with the Metropolitan Opera Company of New York City, and during the summer months he plays with the Santa Fe Opera Company of New Mexico. To Leon, a resident of New York City, the admiration of his Alma Mater is appropriately attributed.

The Amptennian Staff started their work in September of 1961. The theme "Power" was chosen to coincide with the senior class motto. "Charlie Atlas" was devised by our creative art staff to make the theme interesting. The business staff contracted advertisers and solicited for patrons. The photography staff was kept busy capturing all the activities and sports events of the year for our book of memories. Writing and correcting copy kept the literary staff active, while the job of setting up the book was undertaken by our capable layout staff. The staffs weathered many problems and controversies, but they all seem trivial now as everyone enjoys the success of our yearbook — the Amptennian '62.

A flurry of exciting activity kept the seniors busy as their school days drew to a close. The prom was an enchanting and exciting affair, but the highlight of their last month was the "Washington Trip." To add to their heavy schedule, the seniors also participated in the farewell assembly as well as many other parties and dances. Then, at the commencement exercises, the key to the world outside was distributed to the students in the form of a diploma, culminating their secondary education and securing success in the future.

SENIOR PROM

As social life reached its zenith for the year, students looked forward to attending the spring prom "Mani Aloha" at the Memorial Community Center. Reigning over the affair were king and queen, Robert Schlegel and Christine Rank. Les Baer and his orchestra provided a Hawaiian atmosphere for this farewell prom. Colored pictures were taken of the couples attending and the year ended happily for all.

COMMENCEMENT

As we review our senior year, we pause to look back on the class of 1961. Our last memory of them is their Commencement, held on June 14, 1961, at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the Northampton Area Joint Senior High School.

Beverly Roberts, a member of the graduating class, discussed "A Look at the United Nations," and Darryl E. Dech, also a member of the '61 class, explained "Why Reach Into Space?" Both were original orations.

Willard Oplinger, class president, announced the names of the respective seniors as they came forth to receive their diplomas. Through tear-glistened eyes they ended their high school years with the singing of their class song and Alma Mater.

Judge Kessinger, "boy orator," lectures at Commencement.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER

Judge Harold Caldwell Kessinger, who has been termed "as droll as Will Rodgers and as dynamic as Wendell Wilkie," discussed "Tuning in on the Future" at the graduation exercises of the class of '61.

Judge Kessinger was raised a Quaker and was educated at Blackburn College, Northwestern University, and the University of Chicago. He earned his way through college as the "boy orator" and has appeared on the platform many times with the country's leading speakers. Judge Kessinger has spoken in all fifty states — as well as Cuba, Canada, Mexico, and England.
